Extract Away Carpet Service

by Virginia Bruce

Some say that for every job that needs doing, there's someone who is perfectly suited to it and loves it. While many of us would not find satisfaction in cleaning other people's carpets, it's the perfect profession for Tim Willis of Extract Away Carpet Services.

Before he began his independent, sole-proprietor business, he worked as a respiratory therapist in a hospital. But he wanted work that would let him be independent and mobile. In 1988 he bought his first machine, a large RX20 model.

It's such a well-built product that he still uses it for commercial work, but he says it was awkward for smaller rooms and stairs, so he also has a Rotovac, which does a comparable job but is more maneuverable.

Most carpet cleaning companies, and almost all of the chain operators, use a wand that squirts hot water and cleaning agents onto the carpet and then vacuums it up. The equipment that Tim uses—the Rotovac or the RX 20—work with rotary action to inject steam and cleaning agents more thoroughly into carpet fibers and then “extract away” the resulting dirty water. Tim says, “it's as close as you can get to a washing machine for your carpet.”

Tim uses this more-expensive equipment because he is committed to doing the best possible job for his customers. “It's extremely thorough. People are very impressed with it. I appreciate having the best and providing the best. It is the work ethic that is built into me. Not to mention simply good business practice!” he says.

He enjoys helping people get the most from their homes, whether they live in apartments or large houses. A clean carpet and an odor-free home help to create the feeling of harmony that contributes to our general well-being. “It's a personal connection for me. I used to resuscitate people—now I resuscitate carpet, bringing life back into it so all can continue to enjoy it and live a healthier life.”

After working for several years cleaning carpets, he says, “There was a demand for carpet installation, so I became certified, bonded, and insured as a carpet installer, and later started installing vinyl also. Some property owners needed installs done when tenants did too much damage. It fell into place with the cleaning.

Both businesses build each other. Later I started doing repairs and stretching, and re-laying carpets due to water damage.”

He works with a flooring supplier that has five showrooms in the region. “We take our customers there to shop. They usually save enough money on carpet that they get the same savings as with a “big box” company, but they get very personalized service, with a wider selection to choose from. They get a better product plus they get a great power-stretched install job—without worrying about who is going to be in their home.”

His wife Kelly is the Office Manager, fielding customer calls, setting up appointments, and also keeping their website up-to-date with helpful information and customer testimonials. Tim mentions that, “She also helps most of the

Cider Festival Sunday, October 16

Embrace the season at the Fifth Annual Cedar Mill Cider Festival, October 16 from 1-4 pm. Taste free fresh cider produced from antique presses, enjoy bbq sandwiches from Burnt Ends BBQ Team, and Apple Crunch and ice cream from Leedy Grange, and let The New Five Cents set your toes tapping to the old-time music. And take home your Halloween pumpkin and some bottled fresh cider from Dinihanian's Farm Market stall.

The History Tent is the place to gather to learn more about Cedar Mill history and find out about THPRD's plans to renovate the property.

Plus browse craft merchants and information booths, and bring the kids for THPRD's RecMobile supervised activities. Fun for everyone at the JQA Young house grounds, 12050 NW Cornell Rd, just east of the Cedar Mill Bible Church. Free parking after 1 pm.

JQA Young House update

As we celebrate fall and our local bounty with the Cedar Mill Cider Festival, our thoughts turn to the condition and future of the community's historic site. The former home of John Quincy Adams Young, the unassuming saltbox-style house on Cornell embodies both the founding and progression of Cedar Mill community. Young was the second owner of the mill, and the man who named the community. The house became the area's first general store and post office.

The iconic photo of the house shows a group of women and girls standing on the dirt track that was Cornell Road in those days. The proximity of the road to the house presents one of the several challenges to restoring the house to community use. The Washington County right-of-way comes within a few feet of the front door. If and when the county decides to widen the road, the location will be an obvious problem.

A second major challenge is that

Bales offers a new Gluten-free section

Assistant manager David Best collaborated with United Natural Foods supplier Vadim Marinescu to create a new section of the store featuring gluten-free products. "For people who suffer from Celiac Disease and other conditions that make gluten a problem, we are bringing all our products into one place," says Best. "We have one of the best selections in town—more than some natural foods stores," he continues. Find it next to the bulk containers near the center of the store.

see what great gifts and snacks our local Mountain Man can provide for you. For more information call Joanne at 503-701-4005. The booth will be open through December 17—weather permitting.

Mountain Man opens Saturday location

Beginning Saturday, October 22, between 10 am and 3 pm, Joanne Hollister, our Cedar Mill Mountain Man Nut & Fruit Co. distributor, will set up a temporary booth on Murray Road in the Miller Paint parking lot. Joanne will offer holiday gift baskets, nut, candy and fruit packs as well as all other Mt. Man treats. Corporate and personal orders can be placed for shipping or for delivery, or just select from the stock on hand.

With Mountain Man gift baskets and packs, your recipients will be getting more delicious food and less packaging than with other holiday gift companies. Joanne will work with you on personalizing your basket for your customers, and in picking out what you want in a one-pound pack. Be sure to stop in and

H.E.R.O.s Of The Business World

Among the list of Cedar Mill community heroes are the folks at Dollar Tree, Poppa's Haven, Mikes Auto Parts, Sunset Athletic Club, Walgreens, and Muttley Crew. These businesses are participating in Sunset High School's work experience (H.E.R.O.) program.

The Sunset H.E.R.O. program strives to improve the quality of post-high school life for students with disabilities, offering them a realistic and exploratory work experience at participating community business locations. If you have questions about the H.E.R.O.'s program, please contact Liz Baer at Sunset High School, (503) 259-5050 or liz_baer@beaverton.k12.or.us.

Fashionable Fund-Raiser

Second Edition Resale Shop, the ongoing fundraiser for the Cedar Mill Community Library, will host "Cover to Cover", a fashion show and luncheon on Friday, October 21, at 11:30 am. The event will be held at the Christ United Methodist Church and will feature "like new" clothing and accessories from the shop. The luncheon will be catered by Lori Emch of Tasteful Catering, with help from the Second Edition volunteers.

Tickets are $18 and are available at Second Edition (next to the Cedar Mill Community Library). The volunteers look forward to making this a big money-making event, and have contributed a handmade quilt, American Girl doll, and gift baskets to add even more fun. Everyone who attended last year was impressed with the quality of the items displayed, which are for sale in the shop following the show. (Drivers, watch out for Fashion Show attendees rushing across the street to vie for that perfect dress!)

Yoga for Migraines and Insomnia

The list of yoga's health benefits is a long one, but did you know yoga can help you sleep better and relieve migraine headaches? This fall, join instructor Amy Duncan on two Sunday afternoons at Sunset Yoga Center, 12923 NW Cornell Road, to discover how yoga can be an effective tool for healing what ails you.

The migraine workshop will be held Oct. 16, and the insomnia workshop will take place Nov. 20. Each session will run from 4 to 6 pm, and the cost for each is $20. Students of all levels are invited to participate. While each class is built around a specific theme, you need not suffer from the condition to attend or enjoy the restorative benefits.

Most of us do not take time to relax and give our minds and bodies a chance to restore themselves. In each two-hour class, you'll have the time to learn which poses are best for you, how to support yourself in each one and how to modify poses as needed. With humor and compassion, Amy will lead participants through a sequence of restorative poses that calm both the body and the mind.

Visit sunsetyoga.com to register and learn more about Sunset Yoga Center.

Music lessons for adults!

Westside Music School is offering a new recreational music-making program, intended for adult beginners who would like to learn to play the organ, piano, or keyboard. This course, which includes both familiar tunes and original music, is designed specifically for hobbyists who enjoy a stress-free learning environment.

The students will learn to play by chords as well as learning to read music. Also, contrary to traditional teaching scenarios, students are not required to play in formal recitals. Westside Music School provides celebrations, piano parties and similar get-togethers to allow adult

Farmers Market through October

Throughout October 2011, THPRD's Cedar Mill Farmers Market will open at 9 am and close at 1 pm. We'll throw in the towel for a day if and only if the weather is stormy, which we're defining as both windy and rainy. If that happens, we'll just expect to see y'all on the next Saturday. Don't worry, as in past autumns, we'll probably be open every week! We all own rubber boots and we don't mind a little rain or even a lot of rain as long as it's not blowing at us sideways. Check us on Facebook (facebook.com/CedarMillFarmersMarket) if you want to know for sure; also check Facebook to see which musician is on deck and to sometimes get the word about vendor specials and other interesting happenings. Another way to stay in the know is by signing up for the market's e-news with a simple request to cmfmarket@gmail.com. Just type e-news in the subject line.

Ride a bicycle for fun and maybe for commuting? Our awesome new Spoke & Sport friends, Roger and his multi-talented son Martinez, will do a free bicycle inspection for you and maybe even help you out for free with some minor repairs, so perhaps you should ride your bike to the market for a check-up! Need some good bicycle-fitting advice? They can help you with that, too, and they also work with skate-boards, snowboards, skis, and freeboards. Roger loves restoring vintage bikes—the kind that were state of the art 30-40+ years ago. Roger & Martinez are really cool, and hate to see a good bike going to waste. If you have an old bike that needs a new home, bring it in and they'll fix it up for donation to a needy child/family. They've also got some used bikes into which they've put new parts and a good deal of work and they sell them super-cheap. Stop in to see what's new at the Spoke & Sport booth at the market every Saturday this month except for October 15.

Every Saturday for the rest of the season, we'll try to catch some of those extra school supplies floating around, for the benefit of our nearest middle school, Five Oaks. Donations do not need to be brand-new off-the-shelf items. We welcome donations of, for example, your company's old logo ballpoints or retired gently-used 3-ring binders, index cards, etc. New stuff is welcome, too, of course, but don't rule out a second use for those things you were thinking would never get used again. In addition to traditional school supplies, we could use some magazines. A few teachers from Five Oaks reminded me that they are short on periodicals to be used for all kinds of classroom projects. They do not need to be complete, tidy, or even readable magazines! Most will be used by the students for various creative/artistic projects, so they'll be cut up for the photos/ads/headlines. Sports magazines always seem to be in short supply, so how about bringing in your old stack of Sports Illustrated or those motorcycle or skateboard periodicals? Just drop them at the market's info booth on any October Saturday.

The Farmers Market will be somewhat smaller in October than in previous weeks, but all of September's farm vendors are still around and the market will be overflowing with autumn's bounty! It's harvest time! Vanessa & Thao will bring us their lovely cut flowers until the frost or a windstorm get the best of the flower fields. Many of our artisans and crafters move on to fall shows and bazaars following the market season, so check Facebook and the e-news for word on where to find many of them after the market is done in November.

October is the time to stock up on winter squash, apples, and anything you like to freeze, pickle, and preserve, so come on out to THPRD's Cedar Mill Farmers' Market, open 9 - 1 every Saturday of October! Contact Dina Gross at 503-913-7733 or cmfmarket@gmail.com with questions or to volunteer. Thanks for supporting local agriculture and local artisans by shopping at your community market.

Beaverton School District Local Option Levy - #34-193

The Beaverton School District is proposing a 5-year Local Option Levy that could provide the District with additional operating funds to help offset teacher and educational program reductions. The Local Option Levy could raise approximately $14 million per year, generating an estimated $70 million over five years. 100% percent of levy proceeds would be spent in classrooms for teachers and programs.

The recession has caused the Oregon Legislature to reduce the State School Fund that provides operating funds for K-12 schools statewide. In the last four years, the Beaverton School District has reduced its budget by $105 million, raising class sizes, and cutting educational programs.

For the 2012-13 school year, the District is projecting a funding shortfall of approximately $24-37 million, the equivalent of at least 300 teachers, or 24 school days. The Beaverton School District is anticipating that there will be several more years of state revenue shortfalls.

The authorized levy would be $1.00 per $1,000 of assessed value per year for five years. The actual property taxes collected would vary from property to property. For a home with an assessed value of $200,000, the annual cost is estimated to be $200.00 or $16.00 per month. To estimate your tax, please visit the Local Option Levy web page.

An independent audit committee would review expenditures so funds are used as approved by voters.

For more details click on Local Option Levy at beaverton.k12.or.us

House District 1 Primary

Governor Kitzhaber has set a special election to replace Congressman David Wu after receiving a letter of resignation from the representative of Oregon's First Congressional District. A special primary election will be held on November 8, and a special general election will be held on January 31, 2012.

Candidates for our next representative to the US House of Representatives on the Republican ticket are: Lisa Michaels, D R Delgado-Morgan, Pavel Goberman, Jim Greenfield, and Rob Cornilles.

Democrats vying for the ballot are: Dominic Hammon, Suzanne Bonamici, Brad Witt, Saba Ahmed, Brad Avakian, Dan Strite, Robert E Lettin, and Todd Lee Ritter.

You can read the candidates' filing papers and get more election info on the county website.

A Will is Not Enough...

Everyone has an "estate," no matter what you've acquired in life. Yet 75% of the public is caught unprepared, unaware that they even have an estate. Join attorney Richard Schneider, co-author of A Will is Not Enough in Oregon, on Thursday, October 20, at 6:30 pm, at the Cedar Mill Library, for a free workshop.

A Special Poetry Reading

In October, local poet, Dr. Gene Jackson, will visit the library's poetry group, Voices in Verse, to read from his latest volume of poetry. Sacred Verses is the first of four volumes, and the entire work is an approximate modern adaptation of Dante's Divine Comedy. Please join us for this special reading on Saturday, October 22, at 10 am, in the Cedar Mill Library's upstairs meeting room.

BSD seeks members for school Community Engagement Committees

The Beaverton School District is searching for applicants for each school's Community Engagement Committee. Responsibilities of these committees include assisting the principal with outreach to the community, serving as a liaison between the community, principal and School Board, and deciding use of school property.

Applicants will be appointed by each school's respective principal, and they must reside and/or work within District boundaries. Applications are available online at beaverton.k12.or.us. The deadline to apply is October 17.

DEQ continues to monitor Murray/Cornell property

Many wondered about the large tank sitting in a fenced-off area at the corner of Murray and Cornell. Teresa Wilson, Real Property Management Specialist for Washington County, says, "As part of the negotiated Right-Of-Way settlement, the former owner of the property is working on the next phase of environmental remediation.

"A series of trenches have been excavated on the property. Water and microbes were fed into the ground from the tank. The goal is for the microbes to reduce/break down the compounds left as a result of the dry cleaners that occupied the site. The groundwater will be tested using a series of monitoring wells. The monitoring process will take several months, and DEQ will determine whether results are acceptable, or if more cleanup is required."

The property needs a clean bill of health from DEQ before the county can proceed with a much-anticipated auction of the parcel, which is zoned as a Transit Oriented Commercial property with the Town Center requirements.

Terra Nova awarded $64,000 grant

Terra Nova High School was presented with a $64,000 State Farm Youth Advisory grant. The grant will be used to fund the school's Service Learning Lab, which focuses on topics like environmental sustainability and cross-disciplinary studies between science and language arts by using the school's farm as a lab as well.

Terra Nova High School, located at the former Bonny Slope School site at NW Thompson and McDaniel, is the newest high school in the Beaverton School District.

Terra Nova grew out of the spirit of two programs previously offered by the Northwest Regional Education Service District: the Cascade Education Corps and the Outdoor Leadership Program. These outdoor, environmental education programs gave students training and hands-on experience in leadership, teaching, and environmental issues. This real world learning provides students with an opportunity to develop personal, team building and problem solving skills.

Urban Road Maintenance District funds expanded to cover more than roads

The Board of Commissioners adopted an ordinance on September 6 that expands the services eligible for funding by the Urban Road Maintenance District to include construction of safety improvements such as sidewalks, bike lanes and paved shoulders. Prior to this change, URMD funds were limited to road maintenance only. The URMD property tax rate, which is an add-on for unincorporated urban residents, remains unchanged. The Urban Road Maintenance District

Advisory Committee will have input into the selection of safety improvement projects. Their next meeting is October 19 and is open to the public.

For more information about URMD and the selection committee, visit the county website.

Parent University offered by Sheriff's Office

The Washington County Sheriff's Office is hosting Parent University workshops, which cover the basics of understanding and dealing with bullying and social networking, and strategies to keep your children safe. The workshops will be held on consecutive Wednesdays starting October 12 at 7 pm at the Sheriff's Office Training Center, 215 SW Adams Ave in Hillsboro. The first workshop discusses bullying, and the second discusses social networking, parents may attend one or all of the workshops. Registration is encouraged, though not required. A Community Not Just for Students

by Nicole Nagel

Sunset High School offers entertainment and opportunities for everyone in the area, whether it be in the arts, athletics, or volunteering.

Music, Drama, Art

There are many talented students, and many opportunities to appreciate their work. First off, the 23rd Annual Sunset Marching Band Classic took place on Saturday the 8th at the Hillsboro Stadium. This competition hosts more than 1,500 musicians and color guard members, culminating in an outstanding show.

The Sunset Marching Band at last year's Classic

The Sunset Drama Department never disappoints with their high quality, talent-filled performances. This fall's Macbeth should be no exception. The head of the drama department, James Farmer, gives us insight on the production: "We haven't changed the language of the play; the actors will be speaking the powerful language of Shakespeare, but the setting has been altered. Instead of the Scottish countryside and castles, the play is now set in an urban city and the characters are not kings and queens, but loosely connected bands of homeless youth. The violence, madness, and tribalism of the play are maintained and given a new meaning in this setting." This new angle on the Shakespearean classic will be performed in the Sunset auditorium on Thursday, Friday and Saturday November 17th, 18th, and 19th, with a 7:30 pm curtain. For students and seniors, tickets are $7, or $6 with ASB, and general admission is $10. Tickets can be bought at the door or through brownpapertickets.com.

If a sweet treat to your ears is what you're after, then be sure to attend the Fall Choir Concert on Wednesday the 26th. The performance starts at 7 pm in the Sunset auditorium.

All choir concerts are free, so don't hesitate to go check it out.

Finally, there is a unique opportunity to support the school's fine arts department, while personally benefitting from some fresh, original artwork. Online, by visiting ChervenysClass.com then clicking on the "fundraiser" tab, you can order a print from a selection of the top graphic design and photography projects students have created. The print alone is $20, with $10 going to the art department, and the other $10 going to the student. For framed artwork, an additional $15 is charged.

Sports

The adrenaline and competition of athletics is very alluring, and Sunset helps provide this entertainment. Friday night football games consistently pack the stands. Such a high level of energy is exciting to experience. The Homecoming game is the Friday the 14th versus Southridge High School. Fall sports also include volleyball, cross-country, water polo, and soccer. With Metro League matches having recently kicked off, many teams are now facing their rivals, and every match counts towards the teams' rankings. Athletic competitions occur throughout the week, and many offer free admission for seniors 65 and over. The complete schedules can be found at MetroLeague.org.

Volunteer Opportunities

With so much going on at the high school, there are many opportunities to volunteer as well. For school and athletic events, volunteers are commonly needed to sell concessions and merchandise. Day-time activities include working in the attendance office, business office, College and Career Center, counseling office, library, lunchroom, and reading labs. The tasks needed are often basic, yet very helpful in keeping Sunset running smoothly.

A couple that require more time are tutoring in the reading labs and becoming a mentor for Junior and Senior students engaged in post-high school planning. The reading lab provides tutoring to help students pass the state reading exam required for graduation. Math and writing labs are also great resources for students, and tutors are greatly appreciated.

For the mentoring program, you must have a student enrolled at Sunset, and make a two-year commitment to a group of students. Mentors act as facilitators in providing students with necessary resources for after high school. The time commitment is about 1-1 1/2 hours a week, with a mandatory training session on Thursday October 13th at 8:30 am in the College and Career Center.

These are only a few of the long list of possibilities for volunteering. If you possess a talent or skill that you would like to bring to Sunset, then don't hesitate—even if all you want to do is help out in a pottery class. If you would like to learn more, please contact Kaye O'Brien at kobsobcob@yahoo.com. Your contribution will never go unappreciated.

 the foundation of the house is in terrible shape. The present structure was probably built on the foundation of a small cabin, so there are several sections to the basement, none of them structurally sound or useful. A new foundation will have to be constructed no matter what.

Brian Jackson, an architect who has been working as a consultant with the Tualatin Hills Park and Recreation District on plans to restore the house, has recommended that the house be moved south and east a little when the new foundation is built. That way, it will be far enough from the eventual roadway to satisfy Beaverton and Washington County setback standards, as well as being better situated for disability access.

The house was added to the National Register of Historic Places in 2008. Although that designation usually severely limits alterations to a building, in this case the Oregon State Historical Preservation Office has written a letter to the US Park Service recommending that the move should not impact the status. They expect a favorable ruling.

Early this year, Jackson did a detailed survey of the existing condition of the house (see March 2011 CM News). From that study, he worked with THPRD planners to produce an updated site plan, floor plans, exterior elevation, and building sections.

With a clearer picture of the needs for the new foundation work, the park district has submitted a Preserving Oregon Heritage Grant application to the SHPO office. If they award that grant, it should pay for the engineering plans and the construction work to move the house.

Once that work is done, we can begin to look for in-kind donations from the community to do the really exciting work of developing the house into the resource we all want to see.

A large poster of the site plan will be available at the History Tent at the Cider Festival. Stop by and learn more about our historic resource.

Where did all the male ducks go?

by Laurretta Young

It appears that all the ducks in summer, after the ducklings have grown up, look brown and drab. Where are the brightly colored Wood Duck males or the glossy green heads of the male Mallards? Several observant bird watchers have asked me if the males migrate earlier than the females. Others have theories that the males are hiding somewhere.

They are in fact "hiding" to some degree in that they molt (lose feathers) and look more like females after the breeding season. The exact timing of this change varies on the specific duck species. In some ducks very muted just like the coloration of the duck inhabitants.

However for those interested in puzzles and minutia, one can still recognize that there are male ducks mixed in with the females and the juveniles. For Mallards the key feature is the bill. In females all year long the bill is somewhat orange with a black "saddle" like splash over the top. In male Mallards the bill is uniformly yellow or straw colored. This feature is certainly less of a marker when the males have their spectacular green glossy heads in their breeding plumage—who would even look at bills?? But in the winter, when both males and such as Mallards the change-over is later in the summer compared to earlier-breeding ducks such as the Wood Duck.

Many other bird species also change into more dull winter plumage—for some of them the sexual dimorphism (i.e. how males and females differ) is less dramatic even in non-breeding plumage than the ducks. The change over into female-like appearance of feathers in ducks is called the "eclipse" plumage.

There is a brief period when some of the flight feathers are molting where the birds cannot fly. One notices a very drab appearance, which mostly fits in with the gradual change in grasses from green to brown and tan as the summer rains decrease and grasses go to seed. The ducks also are quieter. If you think back to a spring pond and its sounds, the fall pond sounds are females are a dull mottled brown, the bill difference is obvious and does not require a lot of inspection to see the difference. But one does have to be interested in that degree of detail, and for some non-birders this is just the type of trivia that gets to be the brunt of jokes.

So if this helps you enjoy your wildlife viewing, take a look. If this seems over the top in terms of detail just rest assured that, yes, the males are still there...

students the opportunity to share music with their friends and families on a volunteer basis.

Westside Music School bases this new class on the following principals: every life needs music, the non-musical benefits of playing the piano are equally important as the musical benefits, and adult students want to learn how to read music, how to play by chords and how to share this with others. A stress-free, supportive environment allows students to nurture and encourage their common love of music.

Daytime and evening classes are available. Call Westside Music School (503) 626-7181 for more information.

UPS offers new delivery choices

UPS My Choice is a product from UPS that is designed to help enhance the delivery experience for residential receivers. This product allows residential receivers to take action on a package prior to the first delivery attempt. It helps avoid the disappointment and hassle of missing a home delivery, and provides delivery alerts, specific delivery time frames, reroute options, visibility tools and electronic signature release.

The service comes at two levels of membership, and will be available beginning on October 3. For more information about UPS My Choice or to pre-register for the service, visit ups.com/mychoice/pr, or stop in at The UPS Store in the Peterkort Center.

Halloween Candy: a Tricky Treat

To promote community health, World of Smiles Pediatric Dentistry is hosting their annual candy exchange, from Monday-Friday, November 1-7. Kids can bring their unopened Halloween candy in and trade for toys. Kids will weigh their baskets on the scale, and the more they bring in, the more toys they get to choose! All hard candies will be donated to the Armed Forces Recruiting Centers to send overseas to troops. Kids and their families are encouraged to bring a letter or card to send with the candies as well to help encourage our soldiers during this holiday season.

Get The News online:
cedarmill.org/news

However, because the candy craving is unavoidable, World of Smiles would like to offer the community a few tips for maintaining good dental health, even with all that sugar:

Save candy for special occasions, like holidays and other special days! After your child indulges in any and all candy on Halloween or other times, brush and floss right before bed. Parent supervision of brushing for kids under age seven is always the best idea and especially after a sugar party!

Decide which candies might “disappear” the day after Halloween—especially those that are sticky. Sticky and sour candies are the very worst for teeth (even fruit snacks, fruit leathers, and some dried fruits)—it gets caught in deep grooves and wears away the protective enamel on the outside of the tooth. Chocolate is much better on the teeth!

Keep sweets at mealtimes only, as a dessert, and rinse with milk or water after snacking. If your child is drawn to sweet treats, try switching to a gum that contains Xylitol, which has been shown to have many of the same benefits as fluoride, fighting oral bacteria that cause cavities!

For more information about the candy exchange and World of Smiles, check out visit-worldofsmiles.com/community or find them on Facebook, or call (503) 626-9700.

Virtue of the Month: Charity

Charity is a giving heart, a generous way of viewing others and caring for their needs... It springs from compassion for the suffering of others, even those we don't know. Charity moves us, and we respond to their needs, giving help and kindness. We make a genuine difference in their lives. When we are charitable, we don't judge others. We give them the benefit of the doubt. Charity is caring made manifest... Charity creates a circle of love.”

The Practice of Charity: I feel compassion for the suffering of others. I share what I have. I give generously. I withhold judgments. I give others room for mistakes. When I see a need, I take action to help.

Affirmation: I am thankful for the gift of Charity. It makes my life a blessing.

Free Car Inspection

October is Car Care Month, and to celebrate, Du Fresne's Auto Repair is teaming up with AAA and The Car Care Council to offer a free car inspection. On October 22, Du Fresne's will host a barbecue, including drinks, goodie bags, baby car seat installation, and of course a Free Vehicle inspection. Those who are interested in learning about safety and dependability issues for their own vehicle will love this. To make an appointment, call (503)

646-2940, or go to DuFresnesAutoRepair.com for more information.

Village Gallery News

The group show will be juried by Carol DuBosch, a nationally-renowned calligraphy artist who lives in Cedar Mill. An award will be given to the winner at the end of the month.

Additionally, the featured artist for October is Emma Achleitner. Artist's reception will be on October 9, noon-2 pm at the Village Gallery of Arts. Emma's watercolor paintings for this show are painted in a traditional style, yet contain whimsical aspects. She was schooled in Austria as a metal engraver and has taught college classes for 21 years. She is teaching a traditional watercolor class this fall at the Village Gallery of Arts.

The Gallery is offering several art classes for the month of October, including a youth book-making class (Fridays, 3:45-4:45 pm) and children's general art classes (Mondays, 3:45-4:45 pm). Youth classes fill up fast, so register soon! For adult classes, the Gallery is offering a class in Glass Lamp; Aspiration Book-making; Traditional Watercolor classes; Watermedia workshops; and drawing classes. Please call the Gallery at (503) 644-8001 or visit our website village-galleryarts.org for additional information regarding the gallery, membership, classes, and special events.

Reiki Master Faye Wenke workshop

Points of Tranquility Acupuncture and Oriental Medicine is pleased to bring back internationally renowned Reiki Master, Faye Wenke. Faye has been returning to the Portland area from Australia to conduct her seminars since 2005.

Faye's seminar “Personal Empowerment using Reiki Jin Kei Do” uses a holistic approach to personal development and healing, allowing you to take responsibility for your own health. Reiki Jin Kei Do helps by reducing stress and promoting inner peace and accelerating healing on all levels. Reiki Jin Kei Do is a gentle, non-invasive healing energy Extract Away, continued from page 1 clients when they need to purchase flooring, as she knows products, colors, and styles much better than I do!" She even occasionally delivers carpet from the warehouse to the customer site.

She also creates floral arrangements for special occasions. She enjoyed working with flowers for many years for friends. Then people kept asking her to help with weddings, funerals and other needs, so in 2004 she turned her hobby into a business—Floral Creations by Kelly. The slogan on her website is "Always Art, Never Just a Bunch of Flowers!"

Tim mainly works alone, but Tim and Kelly's son Justin helps out, "on his down time from his full time job as a chef. He does all my carpet pull-outs, and helps with installs and cleaning, as he learned the trade many years ago."

If you're planning to have your carpets cleaned for the holidays,

Tim doesn't let a little bad weather keep him from meeting the needs of his customers.

until post-holidays when the entire hustle and bustle is over. Also if someone spills something during a party, blot it only and call me. Winter is a slower season, so it's a great time to get this work done. But I have actually installed carpet for people on Thanksgiving and bring in some new customers. I LOVE getting testimonials from my clients to use on my website! They get a discount for every referral."

Tim says the cleaning products that he uses are completely safe for people and pets. "Some people are sensitive to smells in general so they just leave the area while I am working. The pre-spray makes me sneeze. I am sensitive to it so I wear a mask. For bad urine damage we use a very strong odoricide that is pungent, but when I leave the job, all is safe. Sometime people will request I use just hot water or an organic-type product only. This works great if there is no soil impaction. Because of the strength of my equipment, there is never any kind of residue left behind."

He's very proud of the relationship that he builds with his customers. "I usually spend time in general conversation before and after the job. This puts the customer at ease, and I develop a friendship that builds a trust that is so important. Most of the time the homeowner doesn't hang around while I am working. They go run errands or go back to work. Often, because of the trust and personal relationship we have built, they leave a key and I let myself in and get the work done, I collect the check they have left and

I lock up and leave. You can't do that with most companies because you don't know who in that office is coming to your home. You get me every time!"

Find Extract Away on the web at extractaway.com —be sure to check out the special offers—or call them at 503-640-6311.

A client took this before-and-after photo and sent it to them on their website.

Tim recommends that you schedule the work early before the stress of the season, and before the decorations get put up. "But ultimately, if your carpet is not too bad, wait

Christmas Eve and day." He continues, "Many give gift certificates or do this as a surprise for a loved one. One lady went to the kids' place for a holiday, and afterwards they all came to her home and put all the furniture back in place after surprising her with the work!"

As with most other trades, there are technical advances. Tim keeps up by attending trade seminars, specialty presentations, and sales meetings. The Construction Contractors Board (CCB) requires Continuing Education courses. He also subscribes to several publications and keeps in good contact with his suppliers.

Tim says he gets the most calls

Faye has been teaching adults and children for more than 20 years. There are no limitations or prerequisites to learn Reiki Jin Kei Do.

The seminar will be hosted at Points of Tranquility in Cedar Mill on November 4th (evening only), 5th and 6th. Friday evening is an introduction to Reiki Jin Kei Do and a chance to meet Faye. Everyone is welcome but please call to reserve a space. Call for more information: 503 520-1270.
